Increase Your Profits!

Clearlight is a certified licensee for Diamon-Fusion International (DFI), the world's leader in surface protection coatings. Diamon-Fusion® is a patented nanotechnology process that protects glass surfaces and reduces cleaning time.

The coating makes surfaces more repellent to water and oil which retards dirt and grime build up. Diamon-Fusion® also resists scratching making it the perfect choice for glass tables, shelves, and countertops. If you are having glass or mirror etched, there is no better product to keep fingerprints at bay.

We did extensive research before choosing to partner with DFI. Diamon-Fusion® is the only coating that actually joins with the glass molecules, forming a bond that is up to 10 times stronger than other products.

This product offers you the perfect add-on opportunity to increase your margins and make your customers very happy. A great combination!

Give us a call to discuss if Diamon-Fusion® is right for your customer's project.

Featured WOW Project

Each month, we will pick one of our more unusual projects to highlight – one that has the WOW factor. We hope that this will help inspire and inform you as to our capabilities so that you can increase your sales to your customers.

This project was a collaborative effort between the homeowner, their designer, and Clearlight. Starting with just a picture from a magazine, we did several initial designs for this bar top and even built a couple of prototypes to illustrate different types of glass and etching processes. We also met with the countertop fabricator to detail how the glass and stone was going to work together.

The final design is ½” thick Starphire glass, flat satin edges and tempered. The pieces were assembled with UV glue, then the entire piece was sandblasted with a fine grit medium on all sides. To make cleaning easy, all surfaces were sealed with Diamon-Fusion®.

The bar was set in a rabbet in the stone so that it sits flush with the countertop, and is anchored to the floor with clamps. Under-bar lighting puts a final touch on this incredible project.

The customers are extremely pleased with how this turned out.
